Re: World Mission Society Church of God v. Colon, et al. - Case No. 2011-17163

Dear Mr. Berlik:

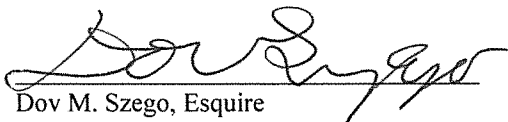

I have been attempting to reach you recently regarding the possibility that we might settle the above-captioned matter, but we have been unable to connect by telephone.

In recent correspondence you indicated that you still represent both Mr. Newton, who remains a defendant, and Mrs. Colon, who was dismissed as a party from this matter but could still face a suit in New Jersey. It looks as if Mrs. Colon has removed some of the offending material already, and it is my client's hope that we could reach an agreement mutually acceptable to all parties.

Subject to agreement on final language and an understanding that any such resolution would remain confidential, my client has expressed willingness to dismiss its pending case with prejudice and forego further claims against Mrs. Colon if Newton and Colon will agree to pull down the offending material and refrain from publishing or otherwise uttering further defamatory statements.

Please advise if your clients have any interest in resolving this matter at your earliest convenience. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dov M. Szego, Esquire
