CIVIL ACTION

ORDER

THIS MATTER being opened by this Court for a determination regarding the recommendations made by Joseph Castiglia, Esq., appointed as Special Discovery Master in accordance of the Order entered on May 13, 2019 and the motion of Steven L. Procacinni, Esq. of Nissembaum Law Group, LLC attorneys for Defendants, WORLD MISSION SOCIETY, et al., upon notice to Michele Colon, pro se, Peter L. Skolnik, Esq. attorney for plaintiffs, MICHELE COLON and RAYMOND GONZALEZ, and upon notice to Steven R. Vanderlinden, Esq. of Gartenberg Howard, LLP attorneys for Defendant, PASTOR DONG IL LEE, for a protective order Court having taken oral argument in the related matter of BER-L-3007-13, BER-L-6490-16 and BER-L-1025-18 and considered the pleadings submitted by the parties, if any, and good cause appearing:

IT IS on this 12th day of February, 2020 ORDERED:

1. WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of attorney-client privilege is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix A.

2. WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of the attorney work product doctrine is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix A.

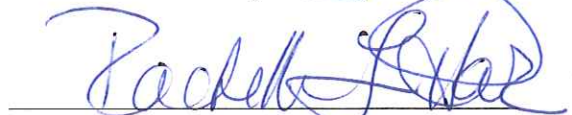

3. WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of the church autonomy doctrine is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix B.

4. WMSNJ's motion for a protective order is DENIED.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this ORDER is deemed served upon all counsel of record upon entry and posting to eCourts.

RIDER ATTACHED

dispute, this Court will not address the factual background of each case. However, it is against this historical backdrop that such contentious motion practice was birthed.

In the early stages of discovery in Colón IV, WMSNJ filed for a protective order. The first protective order was entered on August 4, 2017 by Judge Powers in Colón IV which limited plaintiff's discovery solely to her causes of action incorporating by reference the discovery limitations pursuant to the Church Autonomy Doctrine as articulated in Colón III.

Thereafter, WMSNJ sought a second protective order in Colón IV. On September 29, 2017, Judge Powers entered a protective order which required Gonzalez to return all information he retained when he left WMSNJ. At that time, WMSNJ asserted that Gonzalez "stole" the documents which are the subject of Order. WMSNJ has since reframed the term to assert that Gonzalez "came into lawful possession of them during his membership" in WMSNJ. The record which has been developed establishes that Gonzalez came into possession of the documents within the course of his positions as member, Deacon, IT and "litigation control group" members. Gonzalez has certified that he created an automatic backup of the ZionUSA email account (the WMSNJ account) to a flash-drive, creating the cache of documents which have been reviewed by the SDM.

On August 21, 2018, a third protective order was entered. In Colón III, Judge Harz. permitted plaintiff Colón to proceed with the deposition of Gonzalez, albeit limited to Colón's World Mission Society Church of God, A New Jersey Non-Profit Corporation, No. BER-L-6490-16, filed on August 26, 2016 in Bergen County, New Jersey ("Colón IV"); and Raymond Gonzalez v. World Mission Society Church of God, A New Jersey Non-Profit Corporation, No. BER-L-1025-18, filed on December 22, 2017 as BER-C0326-17 in Bergen County, New Jersey ("Gonzalez").

remaining cause of action for hacking, in accordance with the September 29, 2017 and January 19, 2018 Orders in Colón IV, and required, according to Rule 4:14-7, “any documents produced by Mr. Gonzalez shall be provided to the Church ten (10) days before Ms. Colón to provide the Church with the right to object to the production to her.” WMSNJ interpreted this provision as imposing a continuing ten (10) day window in which WMSNJ can object to the production of any document to Colón. In the Rider to the Order dated August 21, 2018, Judge Harz clarified the decision: “[t]his court is not privy to all aspects of that litigation [Colón IV] and directs this decision only to Mr. Gonzalez’s testimony as it relates to the cause of action and claims involved in Colón III.”²

WMSNJ moved for a fourth protective order applicable to both Colón III and Colón IV seeking “the return or destruction of all documents from the Gonzalez Production in Colón’s possession not received by WMSNJ in compliance with the February Orders and preventing the disclosure of that information.” WMSNJ sought to enforce the scope of discovery by limiting disclosure to only those documents that Gonzalez produced to WMSNJ, in conjunction with the prior protective orders outlined by WMSNJ’s interpretation of the scope of permissible discovery.

This Court found on February 1, 2019, that the disputed discovery documents that were turned-over to WMSNJ, pursuant to the September 29, 2017 Order, did in fact belong to WMSNJ because Gonzalez, who was working on WMSNJ’s IT team, instituted a file storage protocol for the benefit of WMSNJ. Basically, this protocol was a back-up system for WMSNJ’s email database. This Court also found that WMSNJ, as the holder of the privilege, must create a privilege

² WMSNJ acknowledges this limitation, stating in its moving brief that “[t]he protective order allowed for the deposition of Mr. Gonzalez to go forward, but it required Mr. Gonzalez to first provide to the Church any document he intended to produce in accordance with the subpoena.” Therefore, all the documents in question that could be produced by Gonzalez are now subject of the present dispute and as such, will be addressed by this decision and order. For this reason, the ten (10) day window provision in the order of Judge Harz entered August 21, 2018 that previously applied to permit WMSNJ time to review documents subpoenaed for production is now moot and no longer applies in any related matter log when asserting privilege as a basis for withholding discovery. WMSNJ has produced pursuant to Rule 4:10-2(e)(1), a privilege log for materials it claims are shielded by the attorney-work product doctrine including non-attorney communications and a privilege log for materials it claims are shielded by the Church Autonomy Doctrine.

On September 25, 2019, WMSNJ sought a fourth protective order to prevent Colón from obtaining approximately 5,000 pages of documents. WMSNJ represented that the entire universe of documents presently in dispute comprises approximately seven thousand pages of material. This Court determined that a fourth protective order would not resolve the protracted dispute regarding documents without an intensive review. Consequently, this Court appointed Joseph Castiglia, Esq., to serve as a Special Discovery Master (SDM) to discern whether:

1. Discovery is relevant to Colón's cause of action in:
 - a. Colón III regarding hacking/invasion of privacy, as permitted by the Appellate Division; and
 - b. Colón IV regarding malicious abuse of process and intentional infliction of emotional distress as outlined by the August 4, 2017 Order.
2. Discovery found to be relevant in paragraph (A) above is protected by privilege including:
 - a. Attorney-client communications;
 - b. Attorney-work product; and
 - c. The Church-Autonomy Doctrine.
3. Discovery found to be relevant and privileged is nonetheless admissible based upon a determination of a legitimate need on the part of Michele Colón to establish her causes of action in Colón III and Colón IV, set forth in paragraph (A) above;

4. Discovery materials are irrelevant to Colón’s causes of action in Colón III and Colón IV, which shall then be protected from disclosure.³

As more amply discussed below and identified in Appendix A, the majority of discovery documents are not exempted from disclosure pursuant to the attorney-client privilege and work-product doctrine. Likewise, the WMSNJ’s motion to preclude disclosure of documents pursuant to the Church Autonomy doctrine is denied since the majority of the documents merely set forth references to scripture and the order of the church service. WMSNJ’s motion for protective order is also denied.

III. Analysis

Generally, “[p]arties may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action, whether it relates to the claim or defense of the party seeking discovery or to the claim or defense of any other party.” R. 4:10-2(a).

However, pursuant to R. 4:10-3,

[o]n motion by a party or by the person from whom discovery is sought, the court, for good cause shown or by stipulation of the parties, may make any order that justice requires to protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or undue burden or expense, including, but not limited to, one or more of the following:

(b) That the discovery may be had only on specified terms and conditions, including a designation of the time or place;

(d) That certain matters not be inquired into, or that the scope of the discovery be limited to certain matters;

In addition, case law requires that the movant bear the burden of persuasion in showing that good cause exists for the issuance of a protective order. Kerr v. Able Sanitary and

³ On May 13, 2019, the Court entered an Order appointing Joseph Castiglia to serve as Special Discovery Master and defining the scope of review of the universe of documents.

Environmental Services, Inc., 295 N.J. Super. 147, 155 (App. Div. 1996). “Good cause” is determined by a court upon a detailed analysis of the circumstances of the parties and issues involved. Mugrage v. Mugrage, 335 N.J. Super. 653, 349 (Ch. Div. 2000); Pansy v. Borough of Stroudsburg, 23 F.3d 772, 786 (3d Cir. 1994) (“[g]ood cause is established on a showing that disclosure will work a clearly defined and serious injury to the party seeking closure. The injury must be shown with specificity.”)

Presently, WMSNJ seeks to protect three categories of materials: (1) privileged work-product; (2) information and/or documents irrelevant to Colón’s outstanding claims in Colón III and Colón IV; and (3) doctrinal materials containing WMS’s sermons, teachings, etc. Therefore, as an initial matter, determining whether any of WMSNJ’s materials relate to Colón’s remaining causes of action in Colón III and Colón IV requires an evaluation of “their relevance to the issues raised in this litigation,” Payton v. N.J. Tpk. Auth., 148 N.J. 524, 535 (1997), prior to a determination that a specific privilege applies to protect relevant information from disclosure.

A. Irrelevant/Relevant Information

New Jersey's discovery rules are to be construed liberally in favor of broad pretrial discovery. Jenkins v. Rainer, 69 N.J. 50, 56 (1976) (stating "our court system has long been committed to the view that essential justice is better achieved when there has been full disclosure so that the parties are conversant with all the available facts."). Under the rules, "[p]arties may obtain discovery regarding any matter, not privileged, which is relevant to the subject matter involved in the pending action. . . ." R. 4:10-2(a). "Relevant evidence," although not defined in the discovery rules, is defined elsewhere as "evidence having a tendency in reason to prove or disprove any fact of consequence to the determination of the action." Payton v. New Jersey Turnpike Authority, 148 N.J. 524, 535 (1997) (citing N.J.R.E. 401). As noted above in the instant matter, Colón's permitted scope of discovery is limited to the elements of her causes of action in both Colón III and Colón IV.

In Colón III, the Appellate Division reversed dismissal of Colón's hacking claim and the motion to amend that claim permitting Colón to engage in discovery "necessary to pursue the claim" of hacking. The Appellate Division noted that "Colón alleged defendants acknowledged obtaining Colón's IP and email address directly from the websites involved." Accordingly, as stated by the Appellate Division, Colón is permitted to inquire into the claim of hacking/invasion of privacy, and for this reason, is permitted access to information relevant to her claim and/or "any fact of consequence to the determination of the action," Id., that is not otherwise limited by privilege.

Similarly, per Judge Powers' August 4, 2017 Order, the scope of permitted discovery in Colón IV includes "(a) whether defendant(s) had probable cause to file World Mission Society Church of God, A NJ Non-Profit Corporation v. Colón, No. 2011-17163 and World Mission Society Church of God v. Colón, Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division: Bergen County (Docket No. BER-L-5274-12)(collectively the "Lawsuits"); (b) whether defendant(s) acted with malice in filing the Lawsuits; (c) whether defendant(s) acted intentionally or recklessly with regard to filing the Lawsuits; and (d) the nature and character of defendant(s)' conduct in filing the Lawsuits and during the pendency of the Lawsuits." Accordingly, Colón is permitted a broad line of inquiry in Colón IV regarding the filing of Colón I and Colón II including WMSNJ's probable cause to file, WMSNJ's malice in filing, WMSNJ's intent and/or recklessness in filing as well as the nature and character of WMSNJ's conduct in filing and throughout the lawsuits. Such questions are answerable by the documents and materials in WMSNJ's possession, and are arguably included in the documents that Gonzalez provided to WMSNJ.

For this reason, on February 5, 2019, WMSNJ was ordered to produce to Colón the entire universe of documents Gonzalez produced to WMSNJ pursuant to the September 29, 2017 Order in Colón IV representing approximately seven-thousand documents. The ordered production was in furtherance of providing Colón with materials relevant to Colón's remaining causes of action in Colón III and Colón IV.

Presently, WMSNJ moves for a fourth protective order limiting discovery to only those documents that WMSNJ produced to Colón out of the universe of documents WMSNJ received from Gonzalez pursuant to the September 29, 2017 Order in Colón IV. If this Court was to grant WMSNJ's requested relief, in the absence of a determination of what specific information is actually relevant to Colón's claims, it would be allowing WMSNJ's to unilaterally determine what discovery is relevant to Colón's remaining causes of action. WMSNJ's request must be rejected. A determination of relevance is reserved for the Courts. State v. Scharf, 225 N.J. 547, 580 (2016) ("we shall impose on trial courts, as gatekeepers to the admissibility of such evidence, the obligation to perform an express Rule 403 weighing of evidence in addition to an assessment for relevance.") Additionally, a determination of relevance is only possible when the discovery materials to be examined are identifiable. For this reason, there has been no judicial determination as to the relevance of the documents WMSNJ now seeks to protect from disclosure as to prevent Colón from utilizing "any documents, or information obtained as a result of being in possession of the Gonzalez Production." In essence, the instant application seeks to "claw back" documents Colón has already been provided by Gonzalez, and seeks an order directing Colón to only utilize those documents WMSNJ has unilaterally determined are permissible and/or relevant.

B. Privileged Information

“Although relevance creates a presumption of discoverability, that presumption can be overcome by demonstrating the applicability of an evidentiary privilege.” Id. at 539; R. 4:10-2(a). “A privilege reflects a societal judgment that the need for confidentiality outweighs the need for disclosure.” Id.; Hague v. Williams, 37 N.J. 328, 335 (1962). Our Supreme Court has cautioned, that “[d]espite the existence of privileges, however, our desire to attain truth through the adversarial process has led to a disfavoring of such a categorical approach to concerns about confidentiality...in favor of case-by-case balancing.” Id.; see United States v. Nixon, 418 U.S. 683, 710 (1974); Dixon v. Rutgers Univ., 110 N.J. 432, 446-47 (1988); State v. Briley, 53 N.J. 498, 505-06 (1969); Hague, 37 N.J. at 335; State v. Szemple, 263 N.J. Super. 98, 101-02 (App. Div.1993), affd., 135 N.J. 406 (1994).

At the outset, WMSNJ acknowledges that Gonzalez did not produce documents to Colón containing communications between WMSNJ’s legal counsel and the LCG. Therefore, the present discovery dispute regarding privilege involves attorney-work product prepared in anticipation of litigation by non-lawyers in pursuit of WMSNJ’s objectives and communications among non-lawyers regarding WMSNJ’s potential or perceived legal issues and strategy.

The work-product doctrine “protects from disclosure those documents and other tangible things that a party or a party’s representative prepares in anticipation of litigation.” Rivard v. Am. Home Prods., Inc., 391 N.J. Super. 129, 155 (App. Div. 2007) (quoting Laporta v. Gloucester County Bd. of Chosen Freeholders, 340 N.J. Super. 254, 259 (App. Div. 2001)). “Generally, a document will be deemed to have been prepared in anticipation of litigation when the dominant purpose in its preparation was concern for potential litigation, the prospect of which was objectively reasonable.” Id. (citing Miller v. J.B. Hunt Transp., Inc., 339 N.J. Super. 144, 150, 770 A.2d 1288 (App. Div. 2001)); see Kelly v. Ford Motor Co. (In re Ford Motor Co.), 110 F.3d 954, 968 (3d Cir. 1997) (that the documents “do not necessarily include legal advice is, as a matter of law, irrelevant provided, as we note above, they were prepared in anticipation of litigation.”)

In the instant matter, this Court finds there are a few documents which are appropriately classified as attorney-work product prepared by members of the LCG as representative of WMSNJ at the behest of legal counsel. Most of the communications in question reflect correspondence among members of the LCG regarding either “enforcement of intellectual property rights in anticipation of litigation” or “draft testimony of members prepared in anticipation of litigation.” There is nothing to indicate in the bulk of the e-mail exchanges that the documents were being prepared at the direction of counsel. Likewise, while there are a few documents which were signed by “Lawyer” from the Legal Department, such innocuous designation does not comport with the court rules of Rules of Professional Conduct, and cannot be deemed attorney-client communication or attorney-work product. Payton v. N.J. Turnpike Auth., 148 N.J. 524, 550-51 (1997). Thus, in the absence of the personal involvement of any legal counsel, the discovery documents are inappropriately categorized as attorney-work product prepared in anticipation of litigation or attorney-client communications. In sum, the record reveals that the majority of the documents were not created at the direction of WMSNJ’s attorney or in anticipation of litigation.

When discovery documents are produced in anticipation of litigation, a party may still obtain the documents “only upon a showing that the party seeking discovery has substantial need of the materials in the preparation of the case and is unable without undue hardship to obtain the substantial equivalent of the materials by other means.” R. 4:10-2(c). Our Supreme Court has articulated, that to pierce a privilege “[t]here must be a legitimate need of the party to reach the evidence sought to be shielded. There must be a showing of relevance and materiality of that evidence to the issue before the court.” In re Kozlov, 79 N.J. 232, 243-44 (1979); In re Farber, 78 N.J. 259, 276-77 (1978) (to pierce a privilege requires a showing “by a fair preponderance of the evidence including all reasonable inferences, that there was a reasonable probability or likelihood that the information sought by the subpoena was material and relevant to his defense, that it could not be secured from any less intrusive source, and that the defendant had a legitimate need to see and otherwise use it.”)

In the instant matter, Colón seeks to pierce the privilege of WMSNJ’s attorney-work product privilege on the basis that the information withheld by WMSNJ is highly relevant to proving her remaining claims in Colón III and Colón IV. For these reasons, Colón has established a legitimate need for specific information relevant to her limited claims. This Court rejects the blanket privilege asserted by WMSNJ and determines that a majority of the documents are not privileged as identified in Appendix A.

C. Church Autonomy Doctrine

Pursuant to the September 29, 2017 Order, Colón was prohibited from inquiring into religious information protected by the Church Autonomy Doctrine. Specifically, paragraph four (4), states that “Plaintiff shall neither seek nor be entitled to discovery barred by the Church Autonomy Doctrine including discovery regarding any of the defendant’s religious doctrine, practice and administration or discovery otherwise barred pursuant to the Appellate Division’s ruling in Colón v. World Mission Society Church of God, et al., BER-L-3007-13, aff’d in part and rev’d in part, A-5008-14T4.” Accordingly, the applicable standard, as applied in Colón III and affirmed on appeal, requires:

Before barring a specific cause of action, a court first must analyze each element of every claim and determine whether adjudication would require the court to choose between "competing religious visions," or cause interference with a church's administrative prerogatives, including its core right to select, and govern the duties of, its ministers. In so doing, a court may "interpret provisions of religious documents involving property rights and other nondoctrinal matters as long as the analysis can be done in purely secular terms." (citation omitted). The court must next examine the remedies sought by the plaintiff and decide whether enforcement of a judgment would require excessive procedural or substantive interference with church operations.

If the answer to either of those inquiries is in the affirmative, then the dispute is truly of a religious nature, rather than theoretically and tangentially touching upon religion, and the claim is barred from secular court review. If, however, the dispute can be resolved by the application of purely neutral principles of law and without impermissible government intrusion (e.g., where the church offers no religious-based justification for its actions and points to no internal governance rights that would actually be affected), there is no First Amendment shield to litigation. McKelvey v. Pierce, 173 N.J. 26, 51-52 (2002).

Therefore, the operative inquiry is whether there is excessive procedural interference with church operations, or excessive substantive interference with church operations. A minor, incidental or tangential touching upon religion does not bar judicial inquiry. Judicial inquiry is not prohibited if the religious organization "offers no religious-based justification for its actions and points to no internal governance rights that would actually be affected." Id. In such a situation, where the religious organization can offer no justification for its actions or identify an internal right that is affected, government inquiry is permissible.

WMSNJ incorrectly argues that the Church-Autonomy Doctrine prevents inquiry into any doctrinal matters such as "lesson plans for teaching religious lessons and over two years' worth of Sermons and notes." WMSNJ seeks to prohibit inquiry into whether any statement or action was even made which is permissible.

Importantly, the matters presently in dispute, are not the same as those raised in the Colón III. No inquiry into WMSNJ's beliefs and/or practices is required, as the inquiry is solely whether whether WMSNJ did or did not take the actions Colón publicly stated it did. The documents produced by WMSNJ in which it seeks protection under the CAD as identified in Appendix B are sermons, order of church service and scripture. This Court is not required to make any inquiry into the doctrinal matters, practices or belief of WMSNJ; but rather this Court is determining whether the sermons, service order and scriptures in fact exist and were utilized by the church during the relevant time frame pertaining to Colón III and Colón IV pursuant to R. 4:10. Thus, this Court takes no position on the church's religious base, belief or practice.

III. Conclusion

For the aforementioned reasons,

- The WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of attorney-client privilege is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix A.
- The WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of the attorney work product doctrine is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix A.
- The WMSMJ's motion to preclude documents on the basis of the church autonomy doctrine is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as the documents are identified in Appendix B.
- The WMSNJ's motion for a protective order is DENIED.
